

Website Policy

The RHOA website is maintained by the Web committee webmaster. The Web committee is a collaborative effort between resident graphic designers, editors and writers. Substantive changes in philosophy, format or content of the website must be approved by the Board. The Web committee will review all material submitted to make sure it is politically correct, not objectionable, slanderous, contain personal information or is political or religious in nature. After review and concurrence by the Web committee, the material will be submitted to the Board for final release for Web publication. Minor punctuation, grammatical adjustments and edits of “day to day” content will be adjusted by the Web committee.

The purpose of the website is to provide information about Riverwind, the governance and activities thereof, to residents, prospective buyers, local real estate agents, and others interested in our community. It is our intent to keep the information accurate and make Riverwind management as transparent as possible. However, RHOA does not assume liability for accuracy of all information on the website or on provided links.

The RHOA website, Riverwindnc.com, currently has space for 30 pages.

All pages will allow movement throughout the website from page links on the left side of the page.
